"And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little" is a play by Paul Zindel. This is the third show of Zindel's that I have chosen to direct. He always gives us wonderfully dimensional and challenging characters. Some people say he likes to write about crazy women and this play is no exception. "Miss Reardon" deals with the problems Catherine and Ciel have in coping with their neurotic sister Anna, and each other. Another one of Zindel's trademarks is to have one or two strangerthan-truth-characters, exemplified in this play by the delivery boy and the Avon-pushing landlady. Scripts for reading are available in the green room. Auditions will be Monday Dec. 8th at 7:30p.m. and Tuesday Dec. 9th from 2p.m. until 5p.m. Performances will be Feb. 19th, 20th, and the 25th-27th at 7:30p.m. in P.A.B. 109.

HOW OLD ARE YE?

Happy Birthdays this month to Kate Gianaris, George Ewasko, Anita Johanson, Joan Reporto, Tina Grunfeld, and Sammy Munoz. Best wishes from the Stageplayers! By the way, remember that members of Stageplayers are required by club constitution to bring a cake and/or candy (Fanny May) to the Green Room for all of us to pig out on. If your birthday is on a weekend, the Monday afterwards will be fine. For those of you who do not know, I am just kidding. But if you do happen to feel generous that day, hey, what the heck?

DATES TO REMEMBER

Our next Stageplayers meeting won't be until January 13th, 1981.(Wow, can you believe it? Just three more years till Big Brother!) It will be held in the Stagecenter at 12:30 p.m. More information on that meeting will be in the next Profiles or the next Stageplayers dateline. Also, at that meeting, we will have more information on the American College Theater Festival being held in Whitewater, Wisconsin in January.

Christmas is right around the corner and so is our Stageplayers Christmas Party! December 11th is the tentative date. A time will be set and more information will be in our next issue of Profiles.

Our special thanks to Bill Naras for his really cute drawing of the tragedy-comedy pumpkins which graced the cover of our last issue of Profiles. Thanks, Bill.

WHO SAID THAT?

Congratulations to our own Julie Horwitz who guessed last week's "Who Said That?" The answer was Daddy Warbucks from the hit "Annie" WHO SAID THAT?

"What do you two think you are? A pair of queens?" Submit answers to Sam or Mary.

(Views expressed are not necessarily those of the University)

Beth Fahey (also know as Bethie around these parts) has had a rather distinguished career here at Northeastern. Bethie has played a whole variety of roles in Stageplayers productions. Well, let's see, she played a promiscuous young girl in "The Transfiguration of Benno Elimpie", a young woman with funny hair in "The Cat and the Canary" and finally, a wierd promiscuous young girl in the "Dark of the Moon". Oh wait! There's one more. She also played a promiscuous young girl in "The House of Bernarda Alba". Now that's variety!

Beth's career goal is to be a teacher of Voice and Diction at Schurz high school or U.C.L.A. She then plans to retire at age 18 and live in a huge castle. fit for a "King".

Bethie is saving lots of money so that one day, she can open up her own ice cream parlor and name it "Ice Cream Parlor" Original, at least.

This week's Stageplayer roast was contributed by Sam Munoz. Only he should be held responsible for it. I had nothing to do with it, Beth. I wash my hands of it. I just do my job and type the thing, you know? Nonetheless, I feel as Vice-President, I must apologize for it. Sam, it stunk!
