Northeastern OTES A COMMITMENT TO THE

CITY

A report on the state of the university by President Ronald Williams, "A Commitment To The City," is now available to alumni. The report gives a profile of the current student body, provides an overview of degree programs, and highlights the many services provided to students and the Chicago metropolitan community. To receive a copy, please call the alumni office at 583-4050, extension 271.

RETIREES SPEAK OUT

NEW PARKING FEE

On September 4, a 50¢ per day parking fee went into effect. This fee became necessary since all parking lots on campus must be on a selfsupporting basis by 1983. "We hope that this will not pose an undue hardship to alumni, community members and visitors," said Edgar Davis, director of public safety, "but since students are required to support the lots, we feel others who use them must pay their fair share."

Permits are needed from 7:00 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and may be purchased at the public safety office.

In the last session of a five-part series on preretirement, five former administrators from Northeastern participated in a discussion entitled "Retirees Speak Out," on April 7. Participants in the Fifth Pre-Retirement Seminar were: Raoul Haas, former admissions and records officer, who spoke on "Relocation and Travel After Retirement;" Charles Moran, former vice-president of administrative affairs, who discussed "The Economics of Retirement:" Louise Christensen. former registrar, who noted the "Health and Safety Considerations After Retirement;" Robert Goldberg, former vice-president of academic affairs, who spoke on "Emeritus Professorship;" and Jerome Sachs, president emeritus, who shared his views on "Alternative Occupations After Retirement."

FOREIGN LANGUAGE CONFERENCE

Dr. Ahmed Fareed, dean of the College of Education at Northeastern Illinois University, is shown talking with Dr. Alice Blair, deputy superintendent of instruction and pupil services for the Chicago Public School System.

Thirty foreign language teachers, including several Northeastern alumni, from 21 different Chicago public elementary and secondary schools participated in a National Endowment for the Humanities-funded conference entitled "Improving Foreign Language Instruction in Urban Schools' at Northeastern. The six-week program, sponsored by Northeastern, was in cooperation with the Chicago Board of Education.

At the conference's opening ceremony on June 30, Dr. Alice Blair, deputy superintendent of instruction and pupil services for the Chicago Public School System, and Northeastern President Dr. Ronald Williams were among those welcoming the foreign language teachers to the conference.

Dr. Rosalyn O'Cherony, professor of foreign language and co-director of "Improving Foreign Language Instruction in Urban Schools," pointed out that the conference was designed to aid teachers in integrating foreign languages and international studies in their curricula.

"Twenty-five percent of our Gross National Product is dependent upon international trade and that percentage is growing steadily," she said. "In training their business leaders, countries such as Japan and Russia place a great deal of emphasis on foreign languages. The United States has traditionally been behind in this area."

Each spring the Alumni Association conducts an election to fill appointments to its board of directors. Alumni elected to the board are responsible for developing and implementing association programs and services.

This year, 24 candidates threw their hat into the ring. Due to the staggering of terms, five, three-year terms are filled annually. This year an additional one-year term was filled due to a resignation. Elected for three-year terms are Richard Emrich, second term (B.A., 1974, M.A., 1977), Raymiel Kandelman (M.Ed., 1969; M.A., 1973), Peggy Mendak (B.A., 1969; M.Ed., 1974), Adam Mitchell (B.A., 1977), and Shirley Rovner, second term (B.A., 1979). ALUMNI MERIT AWARDS

Presented to graduates who have distinguished themselves in their careers or private lives, this award was presented to two alumni this year.

Gail Weldon (1973, B.A., Physical Education) is the women's head athletic trainer at the University of California at Los Angeles. She is the author of a book and film on weight training for women athletes and served as a trainer for the U.S. women's basketball team at the 1976 Olympics.

This program has received both state and national awards for excellence in design and instruction.

SPECIAL AWARDS

These awards are presented to either students, faculty, or staff members for outstanding achievement.

The recipient of this award is Dr. Robert Betz, professor of biology. Dr. Betz was instrumental in the university's acquisition of the Gensburg-Markham Prairie, one of the few remaining virgin prairies in Illinois. His continued concern for the state of the environment is evidenced in his active research on prairies. His efforts have been recognized by several conservation groups and he was featured last year in an article in National Geographic magazine.

STUDENT ART PURCHASE AWARD

Created in 1973, this award recognizes an outstanding art student by purchasing one of their works for the university collection. Elvarina Acosta was the recipient of the 1981 award.

IT'S NOT TOO EARLY...

The accomplishments of alumni help the reputation of the university which directly and indirectly affects anyone who holds a degree from Northeastern. If you know of someone who is deserving of an award for 1982, please drop us a note.

ALUMNI SURVEY '80: A report on our graduates - Part I

"Chicago Teachers' College North — When the school opened its doors on September 6, 1961 with an enrollment of 1,100 students, it was stocked with one million dollars worth of electronic equipment designed to help it 'establish a community of scholars,' as Dean Roy N. Jervis expressed it. The school was staffed with 74 faculty members. Of the instructors, 36 were transfers from the Sabin and Foreman branches. All of the 74 had achieved master of arts degrees. Of these, half had earned their doctorates."

- 1964 Beehive Yearbook

If we were to rewrite that description of Northeastern today, 20 years later, it would read:

"Northeastern Illinois University opened its doors to 10,200 students for the beginning of the fall trimester on September 10, 1981. The main campus, situated on 67 acres, together with three academic outreach centers, are valued at over 41 million dollars. Contributions by the first faculty, together with the accomplishments and achievements of the current faculty, have helped promote Northeastern as a community of scholars who are first and foremost dedicated to the concept of providing quality educational experiences, according to President Ronald Williams. The university has over 340 full-time and 160 part-time faculty members, 66 percent of whom have doctorates."

History will also allow us to add a very important postscript to this description - Northeastern proudly claims 22,996 graduates.

As Northeastern passes a milestone in its relatively short history, it is appropriate that we report on a project which looks at one of our greatest assets, our alumni. In the fall of 1980, through the efforts of Dr. John Cownie, Provost, and the academic deans, Dr. Frank Dobbs, College of Arts and Sciences; Dr. Ahmed Fareed, College of Education; Dr. Reynold Feldman, Center for Program Development; and Dr. Vincent Malek, Graduate College, the Office of Alumni Affairs distributed Alumni Survey '80 to all graduates of Chicago Teachers College-North, Illinois Teachers College-North, Northeastern Illinois State College, and Northeastern Illinois University. The purpose of this undertaking was threefold. We wanted to find out how our alumni were using their degrees, how they felt about their educational experience at the university, and what programs and services they would like to see offered by their alma mater.

The survey was mailed to the 18,095 alumni for whom we had a current address in the fall of 1980. A second mailing went out in February to all persons who had not responded to our first letter. Over 5,600 replies were received, representing more than 31 percent of our alumni body. Due to the length and nature of the information gathered, we will be devoting this and the next two issues of NEWS to reporting the results.

WHO WE ARE

With our roots as a teachers college created in the early 60s, it is no surprise that 78.6 percent of the students back then were women. This began to change in the late 60s, and today, women comprise 58.4 percent of the student body. Women represent 65.4 percent of our alumni body and number 14,983, while the number of men who have received degrees from Northeastern totals, 8,013.

DEGREES AWARDED

When students born during the baby-boom-era came of college age, the impact was felt at Northeastern in the number of students applying for admission and subsequently graduating. While the number of persons who hold degrees totals 22,996, 1,109 alumni have two degrees, 11 have three degrees and 1 graduate has been awarded four degrees. This brings the total number of degrees awarded by Northeastern to 24,131.

Social needs and job market changes have been reflected in the more than 100 undergraduate and graduate degree programs which are currently offered. While most degrees awarded in the 60s were in education, today there is a greater interest in the business and management and the information science programs. The University Without Walls and Board of Governors Bachelor of Arts, nontraditional degree programs born in the 70s, continue to meet the needs of students by incorporating their off-campus learning experiences with classroom study.

LOCATION OF ALUMNI ...

As a commuter university located in Chicago, the metropolitan area is and probably will continue to be the home for most of our alumni. However, in recent years we have seen an increase in the number of graduates moving to states bordering Illinois as well as to other parts of the country.

WE HEARD FROM YOU

One of the most important parts of Alumni Survey '80 was the comment section. Words of encouragement, constructive criticism, and personal requests were included in this section. Here is a sampling of what our alumni had to say. In some cases, it was felt that an explanatory note was needed, so these have been added following the comment.

"Visiting Chicago this past June, we drove past the school so that my seven year old could see where I went to college. We have been away for eight years and I'm really impressed with the expansion." Note: For those of you who were students during the late 60s and early 70s, you know how desperately we needed additional space. Since 1972, we have added the Science Building, Classroom Building, Commuter Center (student union), and Library. If all goes well, we hope to break ground next year for a new physical education complex which will be built on the old parental school site located on the southern portion of the main campus.

"Although my job is unrelated to my degree, I feel my education was very valuable."

"I hope that by now Northeastern's teacher training program has added classroom experiences with children prior to student teaching and graduation." Note: This comment was shared by several alumni. As of 1979, all students in the professional elementary sequence must complete 100 hours of clinical laboratory experience prior to student teaching. Students are encouraged to do this early in their college careers.

Northeastern Illinois University's main campus and Center for Inner City Studies provided a stimulating atmosphere for learning. The teaching staff was found to be highly qualified."

"Northeastern desperately needs additional publicity and/or prestige in the Chicago community. Because it is lacking in this area, Northeastern's graduates are at a distinct disadvantage upon embarking into various professions."

Note: Northeastern shares your concerns. As a result, the Department of University Relations has expanded the activities of its news bureau. In the past two years, newspaper coverage on Northeastern's programs has almost doubled, and radio and television coverage has quadrupled.

"As a mature student going back to school after many, many years, my experience with Northeastern was most satisfying and gratifying."

"Congratulations to the Northeastern staff in making the university achieve a higher status among educational institutions. With this kind of growth and upward movement, it will someday, probably be rated along with some of the best. I wish I could make a concrete contribution at this point in my life, but circumstances make it impossible. However, the future looks more optimistic."

"I would be more interested in participating in activities if it weren't for my present location. I live way out in the western suburbs and it's too far to go to the north side."

"I believe there should be higher standards for the acceptance of incoming freshmen to improve Northeastern's reputation."

Note: Generally speaking, a university's reputation is based more on what it does with a student and not on whom it accepts. As a state university with an urban mission, Northeastern is committed to providing quality educational experiences for persons living in our community. Our current requirements for entering freshmen have been in effect since 1973.

"I feel I wasn't prepared enough to get a job in my field. I feel there should have been more internships, etc., to get needed experience." Note: The university now offers field experience which places students in internships related to their degree program.

"My educational experience at Chicago Teachers' College, which later became Northeastern, has proven invaluable as a teacher, a lawyer, and a doctoral candidate. I am continually calling upon my background to guide me in my work."

"I really enjoyed my time in the University Without Walls program and have recommended it to several people. Keep up the good work and thank you for the opportunity to achieve a long time goal!"

"I found it impossible to continue taking graduate level classes at Northeastern because they were usually held for an hour and a half, two nights a week. I drive from Waukegan and I spent more time on the road than in the classroom. I'd prefer three hour classes, one night a week."

Note: While the university tries to schedule classes for the convenience of students and instructors, it has been found that due to the nature and content of some courses, it is more desirable to meet twice a week as opposed to meeting for one three-hour session. The length and frequency of meetings is left up to the instructor as long as minimum requirements are met.

"I had a very good educational experience at Northeastern. I'm glad I went there and I'd recommend the old place to anyone!"

Editor's Note:

If you haven't returned Alumni Survey '80, it's still not too late. However, if you didn't receive one, please call the alumni office at 583-4050, extension 271 and it will be mailed to you.

Faculty/Staff NOTES

MRS. HALLBERG INDUCTED INTO HALL OF FAME

Mrs. Clarice Hallberg, was recently inducted into the Chicago Senior Citizens Hall of Fame. The Hall of Fame honors men and women past the age of 62 who have contributed to the social, cultural, religious, economic, scientific, and technological life of the city.

Mrs. Hallberg has been a teacher for 45 years. She began teaching in the Chicago Public School System in 1936 at both the Komensky and Stowe Elementary Schools before joining the faculty of Chicago Teachers College South (now Chicago State University) in 1958. She was one of the founding faculty members of Chicago Teachers College North when the institution opened in 1961. She served as chairperson of the Department of Art for ten years and is currently serving as acting chairperson.

She has been the recipient of the Northeastern Illinois University Presidential Merit Award, two Kellogg Foundation Faculty Fellowships, and a grant from the Retirement Research Foundation for her research on pre-retirement programs for university faculty members. She is also working on the development of a state-wide association for retired university faculty members and is involved with the American Federation of Teachers Union's statewide program on pre-retirement planning.

DR. BRUCE KIRK, PROFESSOR EMERITUS

At the May 17 commencement ceremony, the distinction of professor emeritus was conferred on Dr. Bruce Kirk, professor of psychology.

GRANTS, GRANTS, GRANTS

Northeastern received a $49,773 award from the National Endowment for the Humanities for a pilot grant, Further Development of International / Intercultural Studies at Northeastern, to support eventual development of an undergraduate, interdisciplinary degree. While the present humanities curriculum contains a variety of courses which address non-American, international, and cultural concerns, there is a need for a systematic, cross-disciplinary degree curriculum which focuses on global and multicultural perspectives. This grant provides release time and other support for faculty from several disciplines to develop such programs. Dr. Edris Frederick of the policital science department is project director.

The U.S. Department of Education has renewed the program of Special Services for Disadvantaged Students with an award of $110,649. Designed to serve low-income students with inadequate secondary school preparation, the program provides individualized counseling in personal, academic, career, financial, and self-exploratory areas, and specialized services for students with limited English-speaking ability. Retention rates of Special Service students show that these students succeed if given a chance in an environment which allows adjustment without undue pressure, and with the assistance of program personnel with a sincere interest in their development and progress.

The Teacher Corps Project, directed by Dr. Bertram Abell of the secondary education department, has been renewed for the third year with a continuation grant of $114,045. This program designed to train educational personnel in urban poverty-level schools emphasizes the development of teaching strategies and curriculum materials for the study and application of mathematics; curriculum development to improve oral and written communication; improvement of classroom management; training to enhance the teaching of reading at all levels in the project schools; and the provision of a two-year masters degree program for interns. The Chicago public schools involved are Cregier Vocational High School and Gladstone Elementary School.

Northeastern received third-year funding of $37,044 from the Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education for Development of Educational Internships in Non-School Settings, directed by Dr. Frank Vogel of the counselor education department. This program provides faculty in the Educational Studies Major (ESM) with time to develop internship placements for students and to work with nonschool organizations. The central focus of the project is to identify organizations and agencies which indicate interest and see positive aspects of cooperating in an internship training program, and then Albert J. Fricano, Deputy Director of the Chicago Office for Senior Citizens and Handicapped congratulates Mrs. Clarice Hallberg on her induction into the Senior Citizens Hall of Fame.

Judy Macior, President, Alumni Association confers honorary lifetime membership in the association to Dr. Bruce Kirk at "Spring Thing."

During his tenure at Northeastern, Dr. Kirk served as a member of the Academic Standards Committee, the Promotions and Tenure Council, both of the First Study Committees for Accreditation by the North Central Association and the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, and the First Constitution Committee. Professor Kirk also served as chairperson of the Department of Psychology and the Faculty Senate.

The role most associated with Dr. Kirk is that of teacher. His understanding, patience, and encouragement will long be remembered by his many former students.

matching ESM student-interns with appropriate volunteering organizations.

Dr. Janet Lerner and Dr. Gertrude Meyers of the special education department have received third-year funding of $35,000 from the U.S. Department of Education to continue the Special Education Masters Degree Program which provides master's level training in two subcomponents: An early childhood special education program for teachers interested in working with handicapped preschool children; and vocational/career special education preparing certified secondary school teachers in vocational/industrial arts, cooperative education, and related areas to work with handicapped adolescents and prepare them for the world of work.

A total of $83,641 was awarded by the Illinois Department of Mental Health and Development Disabilities to Dr. Margaret Condon's project, Training of Mandated Follow-Up Staff, which provides curriculum development and training to service personnel in mental health facilities. The department is mandated to provide follow-up for all persons discharged from state psychiatric facilities into long-term care facilities and, in order to provide such service, the staff must possess certain skills and knowledge in areas such as psychopathology, clinical assessment, rehabilitation planning and management, crisis intervention, and legal and ethical ramifications of long-term care. These areas are addressed in the project's workshops, seminars, and university-level courses.

The Illinois Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities has awarded $3,500 for a student research fellowship to study Social Integration of the Former Mental Patient. Ms. Marie Wirtanen, a Northeastern graduate student, will interview residents of two intermediate care facilities in Chicago's Uptown area to identify those factors which facilitate or impede integration and reintegration of the former mental patient into the community. The principal investigator and faculty advisor is Dr. Gregory Singleton of the history department.

On July 10, 1981, formal notice was received from the U.S. Department of Education that, after ten years of support and a total of $1.2 million in federal funds, Northeastern's Follow Through Program would not be continued. A casualty of President Reagan's budget cuts, the project will be phased out over a period of approximately five weeks with a close-out grant of $11,487. The Follow Through Program, directed by Ms. Judith Starks of the Center for Inner City Studies, focused on culture-based approaches to learning for young black and Hispanic children.

Student NOTES

TWO STUDENTS AWARDED GRANT

Two Northeastern Illinois University anthropology students have been awarded a National Science Foundation grant of $6,599 to pursue research on Roman Catholic pilgrimages in the Midwest. John Botscharow and Maija Meirenovs were the only Illinois undergraduate students to receive one of 27 national grants for student-originated research. Of 193 faculty and student grants awarded by the National Science Foundation, the Northeastern grant was the only one in the field of cultural anthropology.

John and Maija performed a cultural and symbolic analysis of six Midwestern pilgrimages scheduled this past summer. They concentrated their study on pilgrimages as cultural phenomenon. The six pilgrimages were: Holy Hill, Wisconsin; St. Anne, Illinois; Our Lady of the Snows, Belleville, Illinois; Feast of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, Munster, Indiana; Indiana River Shrine, Michigan; and St. Stephen's Day, Cagrin Falls, Ohio.

John is a senior majoring in anthropology. Before transferring to Northeastern, he attended Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh. He plans to attend graduate school at either the University of Chicago or the University of Virginia.

Maija is a sophomore majoring in anthropology, econimics, and business administration. She is one of 14 Northeastern students selected to participate next year in the National Student Exchange. Maija will attend the University of New Mexico for two semesters so that she can take additional courses in anthropology and archaeology.

Dr. Lucy Jayne Kamau, chairperson and associate professor of anthropology, is the faculty advisor for this research study.

WHEN YOU'RE HOT, YOU'RE HOT!

The Northeastern Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Dr. Aaron Horne, was named "Outstanding Band" at the 23rd annual Notre Dame Collegiate Jazz Festival. The university's seven-member Jazz Combo also won an outstanding award. Drummer Greg Rockingham and saxophonist Arthur Porter, Jr. received awards for outstanding individual achievement.

The Jazz Ensemble recently won eight awards at the Elmhurst Jazz Festival including big band and combo and the Jazz Combo was selected as the top college combo by the National Association of Jazz Educators.

You can hear the Jazz Ensemble live and in person at the "Swing with the Big Bands" benefit dinner/dance on November 3. Please see page 12 for further details.

TENNIS TEAM TAKES SECOND PLACE

Tom Kerzjez

Margie Ng

The Northeastern Illinois University tennis team finished the season by placing second in the Chicagoland Collegiate Athletic Conference. The team also took third place at the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (N.A.I.A.) District 20 Tournament. Tom Kersjez won the singles championship with a 6-4, 4-6, and 7-6 showing. Another Northeastern student, Margie Ng, also brought honor to the team and the university with her victory in the District 20 semi-finals and gave her the distinction of being the first woman to play in the finals of the N.A.I.A. tournament.
