Northeastern NOTES

VETERANS AFFAIRS

Last winter and spring you may have seen stories in the papers or on television concerning veterans affairs at Northeastern. We are pleased to announce that all students who qualify for veterans assistance are receiving their benefits again.

It all began on February 2, 1981 when the Veterans Administration (VA) suspended all benefits, effective April 1, for approximately 350 veterans attending the university. The benefits were suspended after analyzing the results of a routine compliance survey conducted in September, 1980, which contended that 37 of the 50 student records audited revealed significant discrepancies when compared with VA records. The actions taken as a result of the findings were two-fold. First, all benefits were suspended and, second, a full audit of all records from 1979 was conducted.

In order to assist those persons whose benefits were suspended, Northeastern's Student Government established a $15,000 emergency loan fund which was administered by the Office of Financial Aid.

During this period, the university was in contact with numerous federal and state legislators who shared our concern about the abrupt suspension. Congressman Frank Annunzio was instrumental in helping resolve this problem.

On May 15, following an audit involving over 700 records, the regional office of the Veterans Administration lifted its suspension of educational benefits to Northeastern students with payments retroactive to March 1. In lifting its suspension, the VA stated that although the recent audit revealed discrepancies, the record-keeping and reporting procedures at Northeastern had greatly improved in the past year.

Several changes at Northeastern became effective this fall regarding veterans. Marilyn Gerken Benakis, registrar, is responsible for certifying all veteran records. Dr. Vern Braun has been appointed coordinator of the Office of Veterans Affairs and is responsible for working with the VA to ensure that our students are receiving their due benefits. A variety of procedural changes also have been instituted and a program of close coordination with VA officials has begun to ensure that this situation will not occur again.

"LIBERTY AND JUSTICE FOR SOME"

Commission members Arthur Goldberg and Father Robert Drinan listen to testimony.

One hundred and twenty thousand men, women, and children of Japanese ancestry, 70,000 of them American citizens, were confined to internment camps for three to four years during World War II. More than a million persons of German and Italian ancestry living in the United States at that time remained free. Throughout the course of the war, no Japanese-Americans residing in the United States were ever charged with espionage or sabotage.

"With Liberty and Justice For Some: The Case for Compensation to Japanese-Americans Imprisoned During World War II," was the theme of a two-day conference held on campus in September. Co-directors were Dr. Daniel Kuzuhara, psychology department, and Dr. Shirley Castelnovo, political science department.

Following the conference, the university was selected as the site for the federal hearings held by the Commission on Wartime Relocation and Internment of Civilians. Northeastern was the only college campus designated to host these hearings which were attended by more than 3,000 individuals over the two-day period.

The commission, which included former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg and former Massachusetts Senator Edward Brooke, heard testimony from Japanese-Americans living in the midwest. One witness traveled all the way from Hawaii. The testimony of many witnesses focused on how, as American citizens, they were arrested and incarcerated in concentration-like camps, without due process of law. Many lost all their possessions—homes, farms, businesses—not to mention the careers and education that were forceably interrupted.

Many forms of reparation were suggested to the commission but the one most often proposed was financial remuneration to victims. Several suggested that a monument be erected and that this unfortunate chapter of American history be included in educational textbooks.

As the commission concluded its schedule of public hearings at Northeastern, they began the difficult task of deciding how to make reparation for property that was lost as well as those things that no amount of money can replace—careers, education, and self-respect.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION NEWS

BIG BANDS DANCE

Alumni were "In The Mood" to "Begin The Beguine" at "Stardust" at the first annual Big Bands Dinner Dance which was held on November 3, 1981. The sounds of Duke Ellington, Artie Shaw, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Count Basie, Benny Goodman, to name a few, were performed by the Northeastern Illinois University Jazz Ensemble under the direction of Dr. Aaron Horne.

From the sights and sounds of the evening, it was hard to believe that we were not back in the '40's. As the music ended, couples could be seen dancing down the corridors toward the parking lots.

Plans are underway for next year's dance. One suggestion has been to move it from a Tuesday to a Friday evening. Watch NEWS for an announcement of next fall's date.

RECOGNITION PROGRAM

Each year the Northeastern Illinois University Alumni Association recognizes outstanding achievements and services to the university by our graduates, students, faculty, and staff through its Alumni Recognition Program. Since individuals are actively involved in many diverse pursuits, there are several distinct award categories, each designed to acknowledge significant contributions in different spheres.

The Alumnus of the Year Award is presented to an alumnus who has distinguished him/herself in their career and have provided service to the university. Alumni Merit Awards are granted to graduates who have distinguished themselves in their careers or personal lives. Alumni Service Awards are given to alumni who have demonstrated outstanding service to the university. Additionally, each year, the association salutes outstanding achievements of members of the university community by presenting Special Faculty, Staff, Student Awards.

If you are an alumnus, student, faculty, or staff member, your input into our awards process is essential. As a result, we welcome and encourage nominations of individuals who may objectively and unanimously deserve recognition for their meritorious contributions. Please send your recommendations to the Alumni Association, c/o Northeastern Illinois University. Deadline for submitting nominations is March 15.

LEADERS SOUGHT

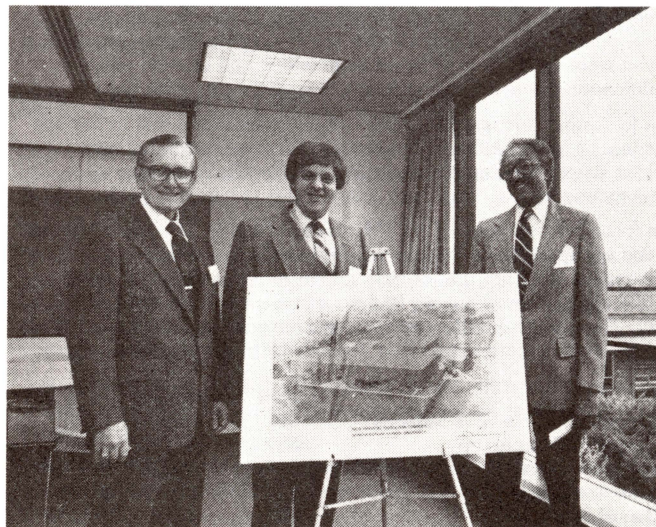

Representing the 24,000 graduates of Northeastern, the alumni board of directors is responsible for all aspects of the Alumni Association. "Spring Thing," Faculty of the Year Award, trips, theater parties, and co-sponsored cultural programs are some of the many activities they design and offer to all Northeastern graduates.

Any graduate of Northeastern or its predecessors (CTC-N, ITC-N, NISC) is eligible to run for the board; the term of office is three years.

Once nominated, candidates are screened by the Nominations/Elections Committee. A slate is drawn up and ballots are mailed to all active members. Active members are those alumni who contribute to the annual fund.

If you would be willing to represent your fellow alumni or if you know of someone who would be an excellent candidate, please contact the alumni office at 583-4050, extension 271.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION COMPLEX CLOSER TO REALITY

Illinois legislators and members of the Illinois Board of Higher Education and the Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities attended a ceremony announcing the construction of a physical education complex for which funding was recently authorized by Governor James R. Thompson. The announcement was made on October 26 at the site of the planned building on the southern end of Northeastern's main campus.

Joining Northeastern President Ronald Williams were State Senator Howard W. Carroll (D-15), Alderman Anthony Laurino (39th ward), Alderman Ivan Rittenberg (40th ward), chairman of the Illinois Board of Higher Education William B. Browder, chairman of the Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities Dominick J. Bufalino, and Ms. Wilma Sutton, member of the board of governors.

This summer, the Illinois State Legislature appropriated $9,375,900 for construction of the new physical education facility. In 1980, $880,000 had been appropriated for the design and planning of the new structure. Total cost of the project is estimated to be $10,255,900.

The physical education complex, designed by the firm of O'Donnell, Wicklund, Pigozzi Architects, Inc., of Northbrook, will have a total of 117,360 square feet (compared to the current facility's 35,055 square feet). The building will be fully accessible to the physically handicapped in accordance with Illinois regulations.

Major features of the new physical education complex are a main gymnasium with a seating capacity of 2,000 (compared to the current gym's capacity of 400), an auxiliary gymnasium, a suspended jogging track on the periphery of the gymnasiums, six handball/racquetball courts, a 60x120-foot swimming pool, a human performance laboratory, a weight training room, a sports medicine and training room, and a movement analysis laboratory.

Academic programs which will benefit directly from the new facility are bachelor of arts degree programs in elementary physical education, secondary physical education, and leisure studies, and a master of science degree program in exercise physiology and cardiac rehabilitation. Programs in recreational, intramural, and intercollegiate athletics will also be greatly enhanced by the new facility.

Groundbreaking for the physical education complex is set for April, 1982 with a projected completion date of September, 1984.

ALUMNI SURVEY '80: A REPORT ON OUR GRADUATES — PART II

WHO & WHAT WE ARE

“WHAT DO YOU WANT TO BE WHEN YOU GROW UP?”

When you were younger and asked that question you probably had a ready answer. Although some of us had lofty ambitions (astronaut, president of the United States, a Beatle), many aspired to familiar careers, usually that of someone special to us (teacher, fireman, nurse, policeman). Over time, chances are your response changed as you were exposed to different professions and learned what qualifications were needed and what benefits came with the job.

And for some, this question may still go unanswered due to various reasons, including a desire for new challenges, “burn-out” with present positions of employment, or the need for increased compensation.

The focus for this issue of NEWS, Alumni Survey '80-Part II, will be on the occupations and advanced degrees received from other universities. The information was taken from the survey mailed to 18,095 alumni for whom we had an address on file in the Fall of 1980. There were 5,578 questionnaires returned which represents a 30.8 percent response rate. The breakdown of returns is as follows:

| | Mailed | Returned | % |
|---|--------|----------|------|
| College of Arts and Sciences | 5052 | 1550 | 30.7 |
| College of Education | 6557 | 1915 | 29.2 |
| Graduate College | 4208 | 1218 | 28.9 |
| Center for Program Development | 1317 | 420 | 31.9 |
| Double Degree Alumni | 950 | 466 | 49.1 |
| Triple and Quadruple Degree Alumni | 11 | 9 | 81.8 |
| | 18095 | 5578 | |

As you read these results, please keep in mind that these statistics represent only those persons who responded to our questionnaire. Also, this report is a snapshot of alumni at a given point in time and, therefore, the results would be somewhat different if the survey went out today.

USING YOUR UNI DEGREE

Northeastern, as an institution of higher learning, has a dual mission. According to James Mason Wood, a twentieth century educator, universities should “provide education for living and educating for making a living.” While it is difficult, if not impossible, to measure the amount of learning that occurs in a classroom, it is often possible to see how a degree can and does affect an individual’s career. In some cases, a specific degree is necessary for certain positions of employment. However, in other instances, just the fact that a person has a degree indicates a level of knowledge, achievement and potential.

In reply to the question, “Is your current employment related to the degree you received from Northeastern?”, the response was:

|----------------------------|-----|
| Yes | 54% |
| No | 29% |
| Unemployed | 9% |
| On leave of absence | 3% |
| No response | 5% |

Predictably, alumni receiving degrees in education generally tended to reply in the affirmative, while those holding liberal arts degrees showed a lower percentage of degree-related careers.

When asked what their occupation was, alumni indicated they were involved with the following:

|---|------|
| Education | 2381 |
| Business/Industry | 910 |
| Homemaker | 355 |
| Public Affairs and Services | 278 |

Employers run the gamut from A.B. Dick to Zurich American Insurance. Given that most of our alumni live in a major metropolitan center affords them an opportunity to work in many and varied types of companies from the small independent firms to multi-national companies.

In the field of education, the Chicago Board of Education is the single largest employer. Parochial schools and most suburban school districts in the Chicago area also employ Northeastern alumni in various capacities.

Many of our alumni have or are working on advanced degrees or taking courses for personal enrichment. Other graduates attended various colleges before transferring to Northeastern for their degree. To get a feel for how Northeastern rates in relation to other institutions, we asked, "How does the quality of education provided at Northeastern compare with that at other colleges?" The response:

|-----------------|-------|
| Better | 12.2% |
| About the Same | 46.9% |
| Worse | 8.7% |
| Unable to Judge | 24.5% |
| No Response | 7.7% |

FUTURE DEGREES

There were 1412 alumni who indicated they were interested in pursuing an advanced degree. The programs being considered covered many disciplines, with education (488), business (271), and psychology (178) leading the way. Although several areas of education were listed, special education, administration and supervision, reading, physical education, and pre-elementary education headed the list. In the area of business, the most sought after degree is the master of business administration and in psychology a degree with clinical application.

"Your mind doesn't stop at 5:00 p.m. and neither do we" is the philosophy of Northeastern's graduate program. Realizing that most persons pursuing a masters degree need to hold down jobs during the day, the Graduate College offers programs during the evening hours. Graduate programs available at Northeastern are listed on the back page of this issue.

WE HEARD FROM YOU

One of the most important parts of Alumni Survey '80 was the comment section. Words of encouragement, criticism, and personal requests were included in this section. Here is a sampling of what alumni had to say.

"Northeastern is an excellent college and very receptive to the adult learner. I think it should retain this quality and appeal to both traditional and evening students. I think it has the advantage of low state university tuition and has liberal programs which are appealing and accredited."

Note: Beginning in 1982, the student affairs office will expand their programs of service to persons who return to school later in life.

"When sending notices about upcoming events—please make sure the notice is sent prior to the event date. Too often the reverse is true."

Note: One of our biggest frustrations is mailing notices of upcoming events, weeks if not months, before an activity and then finding they have not been received by our alums. In order to afford to continue mailing information to all graduates, we find it necessary to use a bulk postage rate. Although Post Office regulations state that bulk mail should be received within two weeks, we have not always found this to be the case. We'd welcome any suggestions on how we might improve this situation.

"I will be retiring soon but I do hope Northeastern continues to explore new and better ways to improve the quality of education of motivating students and preparing youth to be able to become productive and self-sufficient. We have many problems in our country and one of the biggest is unemployment. This burden rests heavily on the shoulders of the educators."

"My years at Northeastern were the most growth producing period of my life. Thanks!!"

"I would like to be able, as a former Northeastern student, to use the library facilities from time to time—not to check out books but to come in and read materials. I understand that this is no longer possible because you have to show your I.D."

Note: Northeastern alumni may use the library at all times.

Those alumni who contribute to the Annual Fund are given borrowing privileges in recognition of their support. For more information, please contact the alumni office.

"I had a wonderful time at Northeastern. Now that I am in graduate school, I discovered that I have really learned a lot at Northeastern."

"I would like to see an orientation program developed for transfer students."

Note: Transfer students are now given the opportunity to attend open houses in the spring of each year.

"Regardless of the fact that my present job could have been acquired without my attendance or graduation from a college—the academic atmosphere, the social mingling of such diverse personalities and backgrounds is invaluable to life itself. It helps you to read "between the lines." Northeastern offered mental stimulation—helped me to learn to use my brain to learn to react to situations. Being on a smaller scale also helped."

"My experiences were extremely positive in almost all cases. Evening scheduling is a particular asset for continuing beyond the bachelor's level. The library has good resources for graduate work done here and at other colleges (I've come "home" to the Northeastern library). You guys are doing a good job; keep it up!"

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION: IN A CLASS BY ITSELF

Dr. Ahmed Fareed

The College of Education has received a singular honor from the Illinois State Board of Educators' State Teacher Certification Board. The certification board has renewed Northeastern as a teacher education institution and granted full approval for its 20 undergraduate and graduate teacher certification programs. Northeastern is the first among all Illinois state and other major universities to receive full recognition and approval for all of its programs.

The certification boards' approval, which was announced at a meeting of the State Board in Chicago on November 20, 1981, culminated an intensive evaluation of Northeastern's education programs by a team of educators specially selected to conduct the evaluation. The evaluation or tenth year review, as it is called, requires that an institution offering teaching education programs show evidence, at ten-year intervals, that its programs are in compliance with state of Illinois required standards of excellence.

Dr. Ahmed A. Fareed, dean of the College of Education, called the full approval a great accomplishment for Northeastern and a source of pride for the university's faculty, staff, students, and alumni. The Tenth Year Review, he stated, "was a rigorous and challenging process which gave our university an excellent chance to demonstrate its dynamic character and deep commitment to high quality, responsive teacher education."

EL CENTRO CELEBRATES

Alumni & Future Alumni Celebrate At El Centro. Top to Bottom: Sol I. Rodriguez, Carlos H. Rodriguez, Ramon Valdes, Alberto Negron, Alfredo Rivera, Clara Duenes, Rosa J. Quintana, Maria Varela.

Alumni, students, faculty, and friends of El Centro, the university's outreach program for the Hispanic-American community, joined in a recognition celebration on November 19. The center, located at 2524 W. Altgeld, offers a variety of educational programs for community members.

Honored during the evening were seven graduates who completed the basic program and language skills sequence at El Centro and then completed their degrees at Northeastern's main campus. Receiving recognition were: Juanita Camacho (bilingual/bicultural, 1979), Domitila Diaz (information science, 1979), Bibiana Fernandez Hernandez (mathematics, 1979), Alberto Negron (Board of Governors, 1977), Carmen G. Rivera Perez (human services, 1981), Alfredo Rivera (sociology, 1979), and Carlos H. Rodriguez (human services, 1981).

GRANTS, GRANTS, GRANTS

Northeastern was awarded $248,604 by the U.S. Department of Education to establish the Chicago Race Desegregation Training Institute in partnership with the Chicago Board of Education. The institute will assist public school personnel in coping successfully with problems precipitated by the racial desegregation of schools and with the new educational situations they face as classrooms become more diversified. Areas of concentration include desegregation/integration concepts; multi-cultural awareness; adjustment to stress; leadership training; improvement of human/community relations; and teaching/learning styles. Professors Ethel Greene, George Grimes, and Margaret Lindman, co-directors of the project, previously conducted three race desegregation training institutes, two in Chicago and one in the Rockford schools.

The Follow Through Program at Northeastern's Center for Inner City Studies, the Cultural Linguistic Approach to Early Childhood Education, directed by Dr. Judith Starks, received support to conclude the project which specialized in culture-based materials and methodology for black children, developing and expanding their language, and cognitive skills. The grant of $77,500 supports the final year of this project.

The Chicago Teachers' Center received a grant of $163,104 for its fourth year of service to teachers in the public and private schools on the northwest side of Chicago. The center, directed by Dr. Jerry Olson, assists teachers in professional growth according to their self-identified needs, and also supports and enriches the instructional programs of the schools involved. Priority needs include reading, mathematics, special education, multicultural education, the fine arts, and occupational stress. At the heart of the center's approach to professional development is the belief that programs succeed best when participants are actively engaged in their planning, designing, and operation.

Professor Mohan Sood received a grant of $8,824 from the Geneva-Pacific Corporation of Glenview, Illinois for a Study of Copper Mineralization in Alaska. This grant will allow Dr. Sood to continue his collection and analysis of rock, mineral, and ore samples from the corporation's claims in south central Alaska. Professor Hansa Upadhyay also received Geneva-Pacific support in the amount of $4,000 for Evaluation of Mineral Deposits in Alaska. For the past two years, Professors Sood and Upadhyay and their graduate students have been involved in systematic field and laboratory studies on the mineralization in various Alaskan claim groups held by Geneva-Pacific. Their work will be helpful in constructing an ore genesis model for the area and a possible ore guide for future exploration.

Northeastern received $1,200 from the U.S. Department of Education's College Library Resources Program, a formula grant which provides federal funds to college and university libraries for acquisition of books, periodicals, audio-visual materials, and other printed and published materials. Award amounts are determined each year by the number of eligible institutions making application to the program. Dr. Melvin George, university librarian, is director of the project.

IN MEMORIAM

Dr. Mary Kooyumjian

Dr. Mary Kooyumjian, professor emeritus in special education and the founder and first coordinator of the Masters Degree Program in Teaching the Gifted and Talented Child, died September 12. Dr. Kooyumjian joined the faculty of Northeastern in 1968, after a previously distinguished career as an elementary school teacher, a school principal, and a director of a gifted children's program.

While at Northeastern, she had been active not only as a teacher in the classroom, but also as a member of numerous councils and committees. In addition, she authored several successful grant proposals in the area of gifted education. Through her leadership, the Department of Special Education has enlarged its service not only to teachers but also to the wider community of the special child.

THE ALUMNI JOB NETWORK PRESENTS

The Executive Recruiter: Insights and Strategies for Fast-Track Alumni

Tuesday, March 11 at 7:00 p.m.
Commuter Center, Room CC-217

This session will be presented by Richard J. Wytmar, president of Wytmar and Company, an international firm which functions as executive search consultants to industry, business, government, education, and various specialized fields.

Executive search is not to be confused with head-hunters, career consultants, or employment agencies. Organizations specializing in this area cannot be employed by individuals seeking a job change.

This program will examine many aspects of executive search including how candidates are recruited, what personal and professional qualifications are desired, what are negotiable items in a contract, and how you should respond if approached by such an agency. If you are an alumnus interested in career advancement, you may need to know when so-called third party intervention may occur.

This program is for alums seeking a fast track as professional managers—alums who are not necessarily prone to changing jobs thoughtlessly or simply for more money. It is for those who are eager to examine new opportunities and who are open to professional development, personal growth, and greater responsibility. If career advancement is in your game plan, executive search may be in your future.

Clerical/Secretarial Positions: Entry, Re-Entry, or Stepping Stones

Tuesday, March 23 at 7:00 p.m.
Commuter Center, Room CC-217

Not everyone wants to enter or re-enter the "world of work" on the fast track. Many factors could be at work: heavy family demands, a reluctance to move too rapidly after having been away from a job, or the need for income while polishing up skills without making too heavy a commitment to a demanding career. This program is designed for those persons who would like to use a clerical/secretarial position for any of the above reasons or as a stepping stone to a different career. This session will be presented by Esther Posternack, a Northeastern alumna (B.A., psychology, April 1974) and an experienced job counselor working for Elaine Revell, Inc., an agency that specializes in office staffing.

Among the numerous topics which will be covered are resources to use in finding a job, defining skills, negotiating your salary, professionalizing your appearance, and handling office politics. Esther will also define and discuss word processing and how it is affecting positions in business and industry.
