This is the year 1946. The war bombs of the past decade have been stilled and from the rubble that remains Peace must be built. The United Nations struggles, gasps, attempts to breathe into its body a life that carries with it the hopes of a weary world. The multiplicity of the problems that confront the peoples of the world rise up in an almost bewildering array. Into this maze go the graduates of '46. To them, in the hope that their reason and knowledge will give them a place among mankind that will assist men of all nations, we dedicate this book. This is a dedication not to blind, sacred obedience, nor to ostrich manners, but to a belief that mere individuals can utilize the wisdom of education to effectively contribute a small share toward eradicating ignorance and building a better world.

In Memoriam

"Both students and faculty lose a charming, always cheerful, understanding friend."

Faculty

Administration and faculty

... once again saw faces come and go. Biggest news of the year was but a rumor — Bartky was coming back. Then he wasn't coming back — he didn't come back. In a letter to the College, Bartky made it clear that the Navy still wanted to utilize his services and so he would remain Commander until at least the start of the '46 fall semester.

However, back from the services did come George W. Boyle to resume his job of assistant to the president, William Wattenberg to give the education department a lift, and John Carter to resume his teaching post in the English department. Other returnees included W. Wilbur Hatfield and Clarence Gifford from sabbatical, and Bernice Boye and James Sanders from leave of absence.

Faculty, administration and students mourned the passing of their teacher, friend and colleague in the death of Alta M. Turk in March. Miss Turk's ten years in the English department made her position a hard one to fill. Florence C. Ballenger has taken over her class work and has done an exceptional job.

With the increased student enrollment due to returning veterans, several new divisions were created to which Kathryn Cramer, Harlan Hagman and Mary Kirkpatrick of the music, education, and math departments, respectively, were called. Through the year the faculty lost Harry J. Osterhart and Paul Glenister, the latter of whom is at Wilson Junior College.

The administration line-up saw James I. Swearingen still top man, Boyle as assistant president, Louise C. Robinson as dean and Emma Fleer Muller as the ever efficient registrar. Back to his teaching duties went genial "Bill" Kaiser who was filling in for Boyle. Biggest headache, although a pleasant one for the administration, was the job of getting the returning servicemen reorientated back into their roles as students.

Faculty members were able to complete the year without drastic changes in the curriculum. Late in April the new practice teaching setup was announced after senior class members were called in to supply their ideas on what could be done to make practice more worthwhile. In December Mr. Swearingen announced the innovation of a CTC-Washburne program that is intended to alleviate the shortage of shop instructors.

Even as these new routines are to go into action, the constant efforts to secure a well balanced educational program continues. The war's end brought little peace to the administration faculty whose war for better education is never ended.

War was the background as CTC opened wide the doors for the June '46 class, the first to enter during wartime. Our class knew its college life was to be different than that of previous classes, for soon after we entered, enrollment hit an all time low — a ten women to one man ratio. With the decline, that certain spirit that makes parties terrific and dances colossal died also. But the world was at war — our loss was negligible.

The class of '46 continued on its way. Many of the accepted traditions — Dunes trips, freshmen orientation, class parties were engaged in and numerous outdoor activities won for us the title, "the class with the outdoor complex".

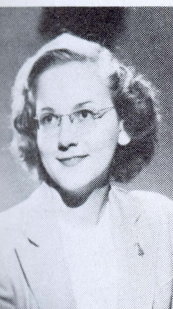

It was when we were juniors that we experienced a change in curriculum and lost many of our favorite instructors, but we made the adjustment. We thought of conditions beyond CTC — our upheaval was relatively unimportant.

At last our senior year arrived. Gratefully we began it in a world of peace. Bartky still wasn't back, but at least we had peace. Even though many of the men weren't back yet, we had regained some of the spark that reached its height in the musical revue, "Desk-Capades of '46" and the senior prom at the Knickerbocker.

Other senior activities reflecting the change were the Gay Nineties Party for freshmen complete with singing waiters and chorus cuties; a theater party at which "Carmen Jones" was on the bill; a Christmas party; skating affair; and a George Washington party. Spring was greeted with Homecoming, Senior Parents' Night, traditional Junior-Senior Tea, class luncheon and a faculty tea.

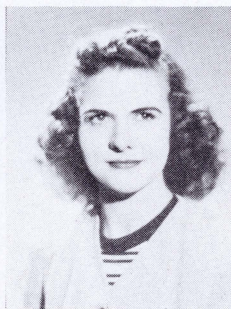

As graduation drew nearer, some seniors marked off the days on their calendars — others wanted the day of graduation to sneak up on them. But no matter how one looks at it, time neither hurries nor lags — it just goes on. Finally the long awaited day has arrived — June 12 — CTC graduates its first post-war class.

Class of '47

One year to go and the class of '47 will take its place along side this year's graduating class in a world that was torn when they entered and will be built up with their help.

Entering CTC with a total of five men, juniors have been building up their male reserves and now brag of having more men than any other class. Maybe it is due to the large male population that the class has been especially active. After hostessing for Freshmen Orientation and opening the College pool for a splash party, juniors passed the peace pipe to the newcomers at their Indian Pow-wow.

Winter months the class kept themselves busy with a theater party to see the "Desert Song", a dance at the Columbia Yacht Club and a novel "booty" appeal contest.

The spring calendar was complete with a Mothers' Tea, the traditional Junior-Senior Tea, a surprise party and a picnic in forest preserves. Reflecting over the three years spent, juniors are ready to realize their obligations as they embark upon their senior year as the first class to try out the new practice teaching setup. Ending this year, the class of '47 looks ahead to an even more active senior year that will send them out fully prepared for what lies ahead.

Class of '48

Sophomores were the first class to enter the College under the new curriculum, and even though the problem of majoring was a less significant one—it was still a problem.

After settling down to their class routines, socially minded sophomores embarked upon their calendar of events. Crisp November winds offered a stimulus to the hustle and bustle of preparations for the Turkey Trot, the Thanksgiving dance that catered to more servicemen than any other class dance.

Sophomores captured the Christmas spirit at a party in the lounge. "The Late George Apley" and his aristocratic family were graciously received by the class at their theater party in April. Then the sophs brought thespian art to the school in the likes of their "Sophomore Follies".

The social calendar ended with the Mother's Day Luncheon when parents and teachers became acquainted.

Class of '49

Out of the turbulence of a war-shattered world, 268 embryonic teachers entered the College. The dropping of the atomic bomb had nothing on the concentration of Freshmen Orientation week. Every group on campus opened their arms wide to greet the Freshmen. Parties, picnics, teas, and even Big Sister advice was offered to the bewildered Freshmen. The cooperation of the Freshmen with upper classmen provided them with the experience necessary for their independence. After vigorous campaigning the block representation of the Freshmen began in the Student Council. Freshmen representatives expended most of their energies to the Easter "Bunny-Hop", biggest event of the season.

In the remaining three years, the Class of '49 is vested with the obligation of preserving the peace in an atomic age.

Activities

Student Council

. . . outstanding organization on campus this year. Operating under a new constitution that was adopted in April, CTC saw a postwar Council that was more active than many of our prewar bodies.

Coordinating Council, composed of presidents of all groups, is a Student Council committee acting as an intermediating board. It insures non-conflicting dates for school events by the monthly activity calendar. Newly set up committees for service, finance and investigation have also operated toward the success of this Council.

Looking back over the year's activities Freshmen Orientation in October brings to mind the handbooks . . . the conducted tours of the school . . . the freshman-faculty tea . . . the assembly introducing newcomers to CTC's organizations . . . the information booth. . . hanging the griper during "Together Week".

Council supervised the search for cheerleaders that culminated in a pep assembly to stir student backing for the basketball team. In their school-wide collection for Children's

Student Council Officers: Treasurer Mike McLaughlin, President Pat Shea, Vice President Nick Flessor, and Secretary Mary Grace Kenny.

Aid, SC receipted over $240. Council is also to be commended for the success of the campaigning for beautifying the lunchroom and enforcing smoking regulations.

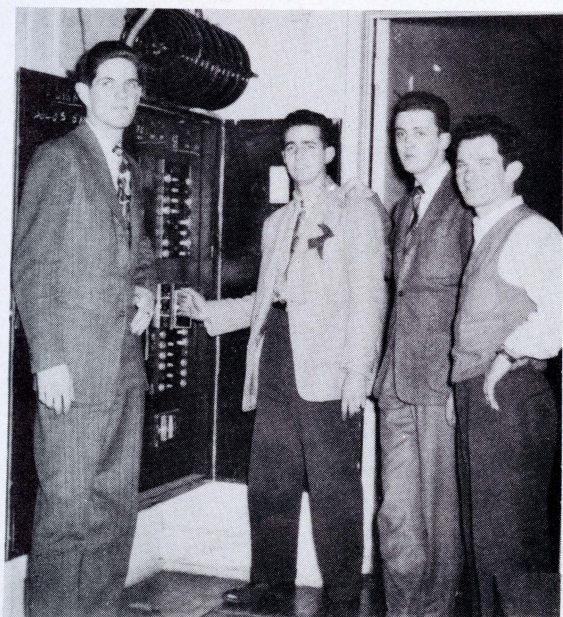

Aside from routine duties of supervising elections and managing each semester's book exchange, SC is to be praised for the full social calendar — the October hayride . . . the Christmas "Open House" . . . the SC-MAA game and dance . . . HOMECOMING!! . . . Memorial dedication for Alta M. Turk. . . the Dunes Trip . . . and final Student Council Dinner.

Student Council Members: Kasty Graves, Lorraine Healy, Kathy Flynn, Mary Jane Krump, Mary Grace Kenny, Florence O'Neill, Pat Shea, Margie Schwarz, Nick Flessor, Shirlee Jasper, Shirley Starr, Ed Kearney, Dolores Tukich.

Stage hands: Mike McLaughlin, Nick Flessor, Harper Philbin, and Joe Tadelman.

Betty Garrett from "Laughing Room Only" visits on World's Students Day.

Homecoming

... the College's dream come true. What Student Council considered vague possibilities for the affair in January became realities March 1 when Alumni and students were seated in the beautifully decorated "subterranean cafe".

It wasn't only the Smorgasbord dinner emcied by Bob Moore or the fact that the Varsity team was victorious over the Alumni in the basketball game that followed, or even the dance that made the affair all that it was. True, it was all of these ... plus the veterans ... servicemen ... faculty , , , students ... graduates melting in to form the biggest success of the season.

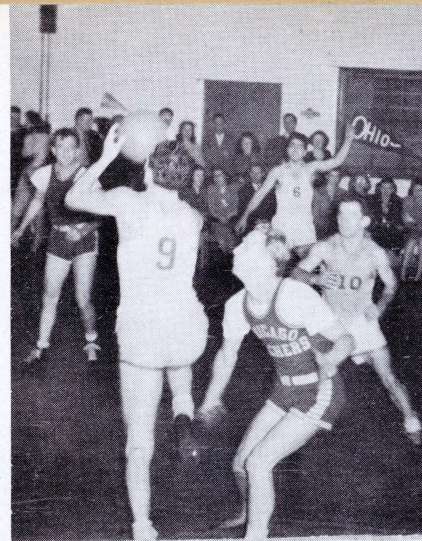

Pat Shea (center), general chairman, surrounded by men at the speakers table: John Philbin; Fred Weck, alumni chairman; Bob Moore, M.C.; and James I. Swearingen.

The other end of the table: Moore, Dean and Mrs. Swearingen, George W. Boyle and Kathy Flynn.

Red Cross Unit

... the Student Council Committee that was set up as a war time board and is carrying on its postwar work with vigor and panoply.

Under its various subcommittees the CTC unit functions as a part of the National Red Cross College Unit program. Inaugerated in November, the biweekly parties at Gardiner Hospital won CTC a niche in the Red Cross hall of fame. Also in line with "keeping the boys happy" were the special appearances of the CTC Choir at Great Lakes Naval Hospital arranged by Red Cross.

In February our Unit announced the opening of a Cookery Class which was led by Ann White every Tuesday afternoon for six weeks. Volunteers also completed the cooperative knitting of an afghan as one of the year's projects.

The March fund drive was one of the Unit's undertakings. As a finale to their activities Red Cross girls traveled to Great Lakes to stage a hospital Ward Party in April.

... recording the pulse of the College. As servicemen returned and enrollment increased that pulse quickened a bit—page four once again became a sports page—and Tempo, in general, kept pace with the ever-increasing beat of the times.

It was with deep regret that Tempo dedicated its March 26 issue as a tribute to the death of Alta M. Turk, ten years sponsor of the paper. But losing Miss Turk merely served as an incentive to keep Tempo the way she strove for it to be.

Working with William Wattenberg, temporary sponsor, Tempo staff kept the presses rolling. Friday night still found the staff at Clarke's "putting the paper to bed". There were more men there to remind the editors that now the student body had changed; students' tastes had changed and Tempo must reflect it. Male opinions and voices of returning staff members, Matt King, Alonzo Chancellor and Bill Schlosser helped the predominately female staff bring Tempo up to the times.

It was with mingled emotions that the "Squads Write" column was discontinued in January—happy because our men no longer had to hear about CTC but could see it—pensive, because it was the end of more than a newspaper column, it was the end of an era of an upside-down world.

Midsemester saw a staff reorganization announced at the Sherman Hotel Dinner that created a managing editorship along with an editor-in-chief. As Delle Schwartz took on the newly created position, Marilyn Block bowed to her duties as news editor. The trend of the changes was toward preparing the staff for fall of 1946.

Every staff leaves its dent on Tempo—this year the staff leaves after having initiated a "Limelight" column, an education series, a record of achieving more complete faculty coverage and more interesting layouts interspersed with a greater number of pictures.

At the closing staff dinner in June, Editor Charlotte Luber announced the new staff and graduating members of the paper were honored. Looking back over the year the staff sees that activities have increased—looking forward, Tempo's pulse as lived by CTC is not yet normal and won't be till Tempo once more becomes a weekly paper.

Delle Schwartz
Editor-in-Chief

... "A bigger and better yearbook", promised Editor Delle Schwartz way back in November. It was then that the staff was organized and the brainwork on this year's book began.

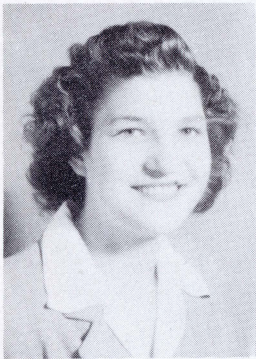

At the end of November the quota of 500 books was set and the sales campaign officially opened. Time wore on—seniors decided upon the class photographer and took their pictures.

By February individual undergrad pictures were taken and Emblem collected campus shots from the students. With the sales campaign and picture schedules in the past, Emblem '46 editors really "got to work".

All through the year photographers Elaine Gade and Emerald Merrill were ever present—camera in hand—ready to take pictures of school events. The photographers worked with Art Editor, Billie Bissert, to make Emblem '46 not only bigger and better, but more artistic.

Emblem lost its general advisor, Harry J. Osterhart when he left in February and the staff asked William J. Kaiser to assume the task. Working with the new advisor, the staff spent busy afternoons in Tempo office pasting, cutting, measuring, laying out, planning and writing.

And now here it is as the editor promised — your bigger and better Emblem '46.

Choir

... official nightingales of CTC have put "finis" on a full season of spreading glad notes.

Downbeat of the season was the October breakfast, followed by a Promontory Point weenie roast. At an informal meeting freshman members performed for the "oldtimers". Choristers ushered in the Yule season at a program at the Museum of Science and Industry ... at Great Lakes Naval Hospital ... at the Women's University Club ... at the College ... and climaxed the season with the annual assembly program.

Gay hearts expressed the Valentine motif at the February breakfast. In March the mothers of the juniors were delighted by the choir's melodious strains. April's program was filled with another Point picnic and May proved a busy month singing for the Illinois Parent Teachers Congress at the Stevens Hotel, the Great Lakes Hospital, and the assembly program at the College. Finale of the year was the choir dinner party.

Home Economics

... the club that aims toward bringing new developments in science and mechanics to its members. It enlists the support of the students minoring in the field.

A demonstration lecture in November through the courtesy of the Evaporated Milk Association provided information, while the group's numerous parties called for menus illustrating their culinary talents.

Home Ecs greeted Christmas and St. Patrick's Day with ingeniously planned merriments and the Alumni dinner in April entertained graduated members and returned veterans from the Industrial Arts department.

Topping all events and closing the last chapter of the season's social agenda was the annual dinner in honor of graduating members.

Home Economics Officers: Glory Bulawa, secretary; Bernadette Walsh, treasurer; Joan Jordan, vice-president; Mamie Propati, president.

Phi Alpha

... CTC's counterpart to the original Muse. The music organization has as its aim, good fellowship as a means of entering the gateway of the appreciation of the music of all peoples.

Phi Alpha swung into its social activities with its Halloween party at which William Congreve played for the 150 members that were present ... alumni and students reminisced at the Normandy House Christmas dinner ... Mae Doelling Schmidt introduced the group to the musical intervals of China at a luncheon meeting in March ... members chirped with the birds at the April Promontory Picnic and enjoyed the Opera in May, the year's final activity.

Phi Alpha Officers: Margareth Isaacs, secretary; Barbara Harrison, president; Jennie Jacobsen, treasurer.

Fellowship

... philanthropic organization on campus. Proceeds from its money raising affairs are donated to the milk fund of the Hamilton School — to student loans — and to the support of all College drives and activities.

Introducing the freshmen to their group with a Barnyard Jamboree was Fellowship's initial project. Consuming the organization's time between the traditional Silver Teas of December and May were the Basket Drive for war torn areas ... the Christmas Tree Tag Sales ... and the all-College Birthday tea.

Plans for a second annual Style Show were laid aside early in March because of the severe clothing shortage that forced shops to refuse sponsorship of the affair. It is the hope of Fellowship that the tide of events will make it possible for the group to repeat the fashion show of '45 once again as a major project for next year.

Fellowship Officers: Kay Carroll, vice-president; Miriam Huferd, treasurer; Colette Brennan, president; and Joan Burke, secretary.

International Relations Club

... viewing the role of the United States among nations. Reorganized in November, there are similar organizations in over 600 colleges in the United States.

Participants in the club learned "The Role of the United States in the United Nations Organization" in December. The following month Beals French of the science department discussed "Modern Scientific Inventions".

Our problem of "Future Japanese-American Relations" fulfilled February's schedule. Hearing a Red Cross speaker on the work of that group was one of the final activities.

International Relations Officers: Ray Sullivan, librarian; Pat Baker, president; Ed Kearney, secretary.

ACE

... the merger of two nationwide groups, the International Kindergarten Union and the National Council of Primary Education, whose purpose is to provide better childhood educational opportunities.

During the year the Association for Childhood Education was honored by such notable speakers as Mary Morse, chairman of the National ACE Literary Committee; Howard K. Morse of the art department; Inger Idsoe, Norwegian kindergarten teacher in this country on an ACE fellowship; Olga Adams, state ACE president; and Mary Courtenay, principal of Gompers School.

Members also supported the state convention in October, shared the fun at a Promontory picnic, and conducted their annual Yuletide candlelighting ceremony. High on the list of important events was the national convention in April to which CTC's chapter sent its delegation. Culminating activity of the year was a tea held in May at the Hull House.

A small group of ACE members: Charlotte Munce, Loretta Petersen, Shirlee Jasper, Norma Hulquist, Mary Pizzarello, Grace Moy, Camille Pacelli, President Shirley Strasberg.

Mu Beta Phi

... the scientific approach personified in CTC's extracurricular activities. The honorary science fraternity is open to scholastically qualified science majors and undergraduates with particular aptitude and interests.

Handicapped by the absence of their sponsor Edward C. Colin, during the first months of the school year, officers and members carried out plans as scheduled. Highlighting social events was the December picnic at the Point where Earl Sherff of the science department did the honors for the faculty—and all did honor to the weenies, cokes and apples.

Club keys, unavailable for a number of years were finally received and distributed at the graduation dinner which climaxed the year's activities.

Art Guild Officers: (standing) Secretary Shirley Jasper, Vice President Vicki Korsak, (seated) President Elaine Skopes.

Art Guild

... a newly formed group which joined the roster of CTC activities last September.

The organization is recognized as one which is outstanding for its originality and creativeness. As one would expect in a group of this kind, its activities are unique and give full reign to the artistic talents inherent in its members.

The Guild's first project was a Halloween party with games and contests designed to utilize skill and ingenuity. A challenge to the imagination of its members was offered at a costume party in April, terminating project of the year.

Art Guild Members: (standing) Joan McGrail, Miriam Huferd, Helen Bauer, Mary Alice Bringe, Colette O'Malley, Therese Thayer, Dorothy Krupa, Shirlee Jasper, Vicki Korsak, (seated) Elaine Skopes, Eunice Aprill, Bernadine Buckly, Charmaine Kahn, Therese McNally.

Great Books Seminar

... experiencing the world's outstanding literature.

Participants in the seminar read the great books for the purpose of learning man's way of thinking and man's common problems.

Beginning in December, the group met every Thursday at 11. Seated informally around a table, they discussed Plato's dialogues: The Gorgias, Critics and The Apology. Their final work was concentrated on Aristotle's Politics.

The seminar is a new organization at the College in which returned veterans as well as other students have shown great interest.

KME and Math Club

... CTC's chapter of Kappa Mu Epsilon, national honorary fraternity and the more mathematically inclined student body.

In keeping with their aim to make Teachers College math conscious, meetings have been devoted to discussions of mathematics and the atomic age ... elementary uses of the slide rule ... James H. Zent's outline of opportunities other than teaching in the field of math ... and the mysterious "Nomography" that promised to see all, do all, and know all — and almost did.

February saw the annual initiation at which KME members were inducted with all the ceremony of candelighting and pledges, in Greek.

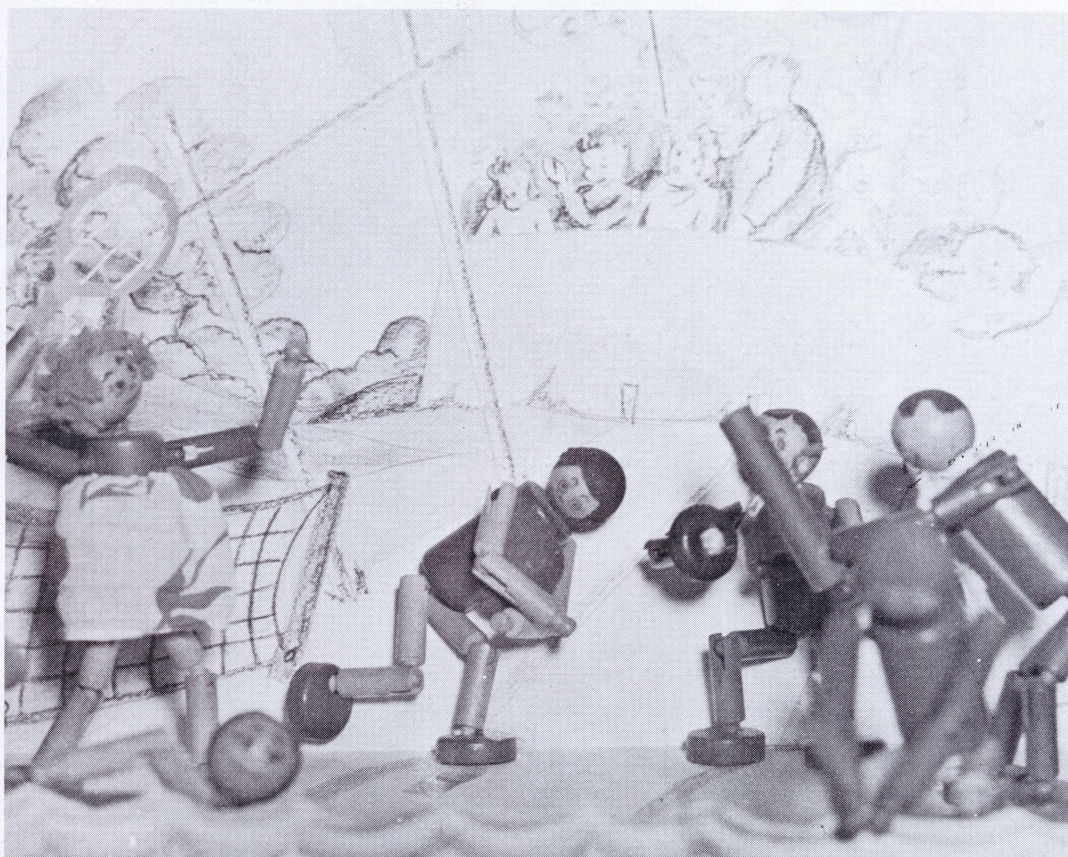

Socially minded as well, members and alumni came together for dinner at Younker's in January ... for a picnic at Jackson Park's Point as the finale of the year's program.

KME Officers: (seated) Pat Powers, president; (standing) Dorothy Tisevich, vice president; Lorraine Martinsen, secretary.

MAA

President Nick Flessor and Secretary-Treasurer Seaman Peltz

... rebirth of the organization that had been swept away in war's wake. Nursed and coddled during its lean years by the few remaining male representatives on campus, the organization came into its own as demobilization of the armed forces became mobilization on the campus.

To Nick Flessor and Seaman Peltz go the major share of the credit for keeping alive a pre-war tradition and instilling renewed vigor into the post-war Men's Athletic Association.

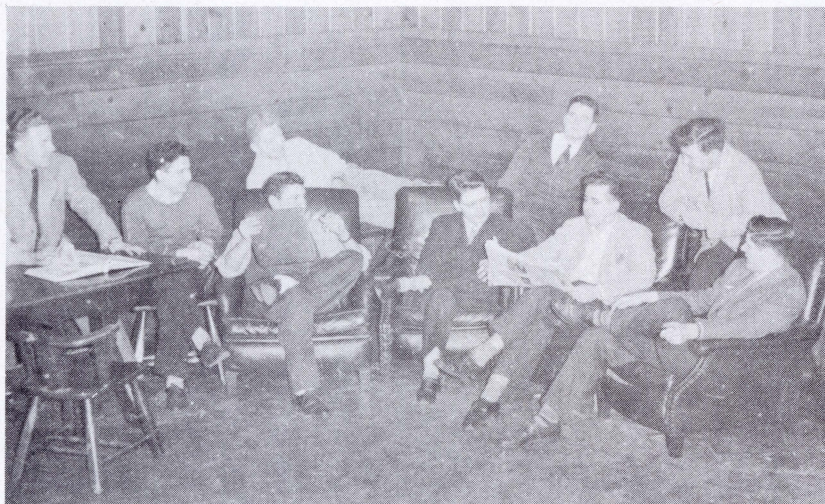

MAA picked up where it had left off back in 1943 with a freshman initiation early in the fall semester highlighted by a hand and knee journey of the 17 unworthies via the foyer on to the campus ... a free for all boxing match and classic tug-of-war, complete with blindfolds and conveniently placed pans of water for the vanquished ... a somersault contest ... and the hanging of the much publicized "griper". Then a house party helped to compensate for the freshman torture.

Into the forefront went the MAA when the basketball team issue hung in the balance, and as a result of their diligent efforts the College was represented by a varsity cage squad.

The second semester saw an even larger membership and correspondingly increased activities including intramural basketball and baseball ... tennis tournaments and race relays ... and joint MAA-WAA playdays. Parker's diamond saw the hits and home-runs that went with the baseball round robin throughout the spring ... Westgate Valley Club saw the holes-in-one chalked up by our men and women golf enthusiasts in April ... CTC's gym housed the WAA-MAA playday and dance ... and all the men saw George H. Daugherty's renowned travel films at the traditional "smoker" in early May.

Looking back, MAA views an activity-filled year ... looking forward, a still more active one can be seen to make the dominant organization of previous years ready to take its place as "THE" campus group.

Basketball

... making its comeback after a year's absence. Revolving about former Colonels, Al Ackerman, Mike McLaughlin, Seaman Peltz and Joe Tadelman, a team was built up with entering freshmen, Tom Brancato, Bill Connery, John Cronin, Bill Dempsey, Emerald Merrill, Joe Reuter and Bill Schneider.

The team started their workouts under a new coach, Edward G. McMahon, and developed a style of play. Raising the curtain on the '45-'46 season, Colonels defeated Wilson, 36-30. First string players were Ackerman, Brancato, Peltz, Reuter and Tadelman, while Connery, Cronin, Dempsey, Merrill and Schneider were benched and waiting.

Colonels, suffering from lack of height, met a losing streak during the first semester, winning only from Loyola Med and George Williams. In the second Elmhurst loss, Ackerman was injured and was unable to enter competition for the remainder of the season.

With the second semester Joe Reuter and Bill Schneider were called to service, but returned vets, Dick Aylward, Dan Griffin, Marty Grey, Chuck

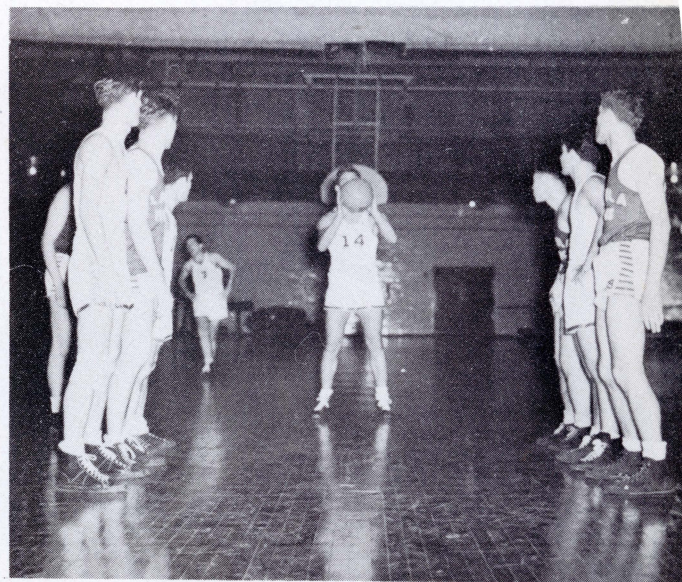

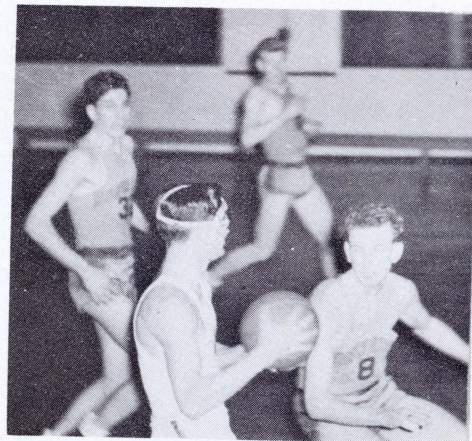

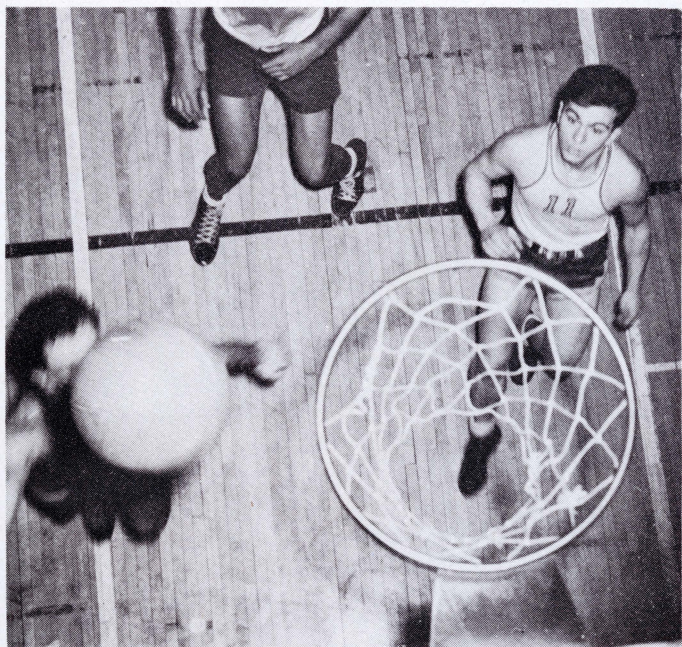

Johnson, Earl Keats, "Spinach" Salerio and Ray Swanson, bolstered the squad. But it was a case of too little, too late and Colonels ended the season with a total of four victories — the final one from the Alumni at the Homecoming game.

Highest scoring man was Tom Brancato as the Colonels dropped before North Park, Elmhurst, Naval Armory, Loyola, George Williams (the second game), Illinois Tech, Eureka and Concordia. "Torpedo" Joe Tadelman seconded him, followed by McLaughlin, Salerio and Peltz.

Basketball team: (kneeling) Chuck Johnson, Tom Brancato, Joe Tadelman, John Cronin; (standing) Isadore Salerio, Manager Nick Flessor, Mike McLaughlin, Marty Grey.

WAA

... our all-inclusive Women's Athletic Association catering to CTC's sport-minded coeds.

Intent on providing athletic opportunities and the facilities that go with them to as varied a group as possible — every conceivable type of activity is offered — table tennis, modern, bowling, archery, golf, baseball and a host of others.

After welcoming the freshmen early in the fall semester with a water ballet and swimming demonstrations, the WAA Board lost no time in organizing their sports groups.

For the first time in several years table tennis was offered . . . a record breaking participation highlighted the volleyball intra-mural tournaments which culminated in a game with George Williams. All-school swim meets took the center of the stage with splash parties thrown in for good measure . . . bowlers "rolled 'em" weekly at the Bowl-Mor Alleys, and folk dancers were "coming through the rye" and "swinging partners" all year long, treading their lightest at the Christmas faculty party and for their January guest, Henry Graef of the Chicago Park District.

The second semester saw the introduction of Latin American Rhythms . . . two National Telegraphic meet victories over U of C's swimmers . . . a play night in cooperation with MAA . . . tennis games on our outdoor courts . . . and sports activities in the gym and out-doors.

The need for raising requirements for letter awards is an indication of WAA's success throughout the year — a year that came to an equally successful close with its annual banquet in June.

Fall semester officers: (seated) President Delma Bowman; (standing) Patricia Norman, secretary; Betty Marse, vice-president; Phyllis Swanson, treasurer.

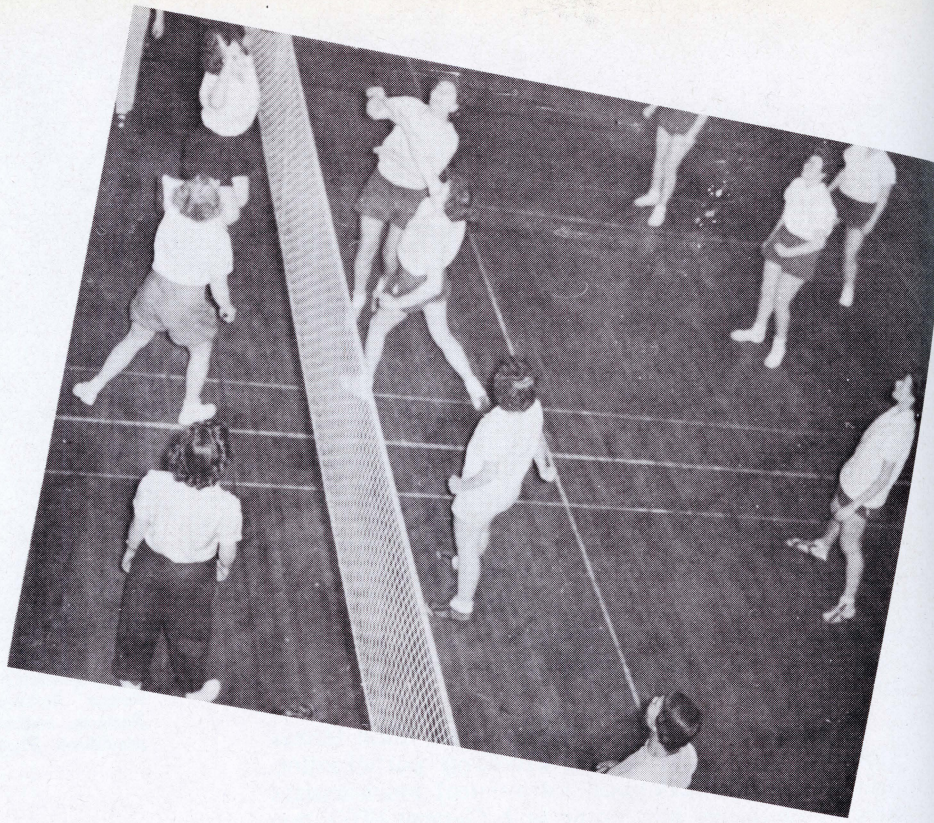

Spring Semester officers: (seated) Bobette Maynard, president; Patricia Norman, vice-president; (standing) Doris Pohlman, treasurer; June Schrom, secretary.

The field of teaching today provides a greater challenge than ever before

The Chicago Teachers Union

As the Majority Organization of Chicago Public School Teachers offers the beginning teacher the cooperation, support and protection which helps to meet that challenge effectively. It is the largest teacher union in the United States. It is a professional organization affiliated with the Chicago, Illinois and American Federations of Labor.

As a member you are informed through the Union Publications. You may save in the Credit Union. You may have the benefit of Union Study and Analysis of Current Educational Problems — both Local and National. You may enjoy the Social Activities. For other advantages consult any School Delegate.
