CHILD CARE CENTER TO BE RELOCATED

The Child Care Center, located at 5101 N. Kimball, will be moving to a new location on Friday, June 29. The center will move to the old Henry Thoreau branch of the Sauganash school at 4008 W. Rosemont (Rosemont and Pulaski). According to Mark Kipp, director of the Commuter Center, "The Henry Thoreau School is an ideal building for our Child Care Center because it was built specifically for kindergarten, first, and second grade children." The center will be close to public transportation from Pulaski and Peterson Avenues. The center will be closed on Friday, June 29, and reopen on Monday, July 2. For additional information, please contact either Mark Kipp at extension 332 or Mary Lou Simms, coordinator of the Child Care Center at extension 558.

ADDITIONAL OFFICE RELOCATIONS

The Department of Learning Services has moved its administrative offices to the first floor of the Library building. The office can still be reached at extensions 430 or 431.

The Insurance Office has moved its offices to the fourth floor of the Beehive Building. Employee benefits is located in C-426, extension 216, and student benefits is in C-427, extension 257 or 258.

The College of Business and Management will utilize the spaces vacated by both the Insurance Office and the Community Services Office for their teaching faculty.

SPRING THING

The Alumni Association will present its seventh annual Spring Thing on Monday, June 25, at 7:00 p.m., outside the Stage Center. The evening's activities will include a presentation by the Alumni Band, under the direction of Dr. Edgar Gangware, the announcement and presentation of the Alumni Association Awards, and a reception. The Office of Alumni Affairs encourages all faculty and staff to attend this event. For further information, contact the alumni office at extension 271-3.

ENSEMBLE ESPANOL

The Ensemble Espanol will close its Fifth American Spanish Dance Festival at Northeastern with performances on June 15, 16, 22, and 23 at 8:00 p.m. in the university's auditorium. Tickets for one night of the festival are $10, two nights or more $8.50; senior citizens, students, and children under 12 for one night, $7, two nights or more, $5. The festival features a panorama of Spanish flamenco, classical, and bolero dance styles and music with authentic costumes and settings. For additional information, please call extension 443 or 666.

IN THE MEDIA

Richard Christiansen, entertainment editor for the Chicago Tribune, called the productions of "Desecration" and "How I Became a Holy Mother" at the Victory Gardens Studio "carefully polished and meticulously delivered productions." Under ARNOLD APRILL's direction, "the actors are dressed appropriately for their roles and are seated in an evocative setting of silks and incense," Christiansen said. The review, which appeared on Thursday, May 10, went on to say that ZAHID SHARIFF "adds great weight and dignity to his first theatrical role in 'Desecration.'" Aprill is a program associate for the Chicago Teachers' Center and Shariff is associate professor of political science.

The Motorcycle Safety Program was highlighted in the Chicago Tribune, on Friday, May 18. Since the program's inception in 1977, more than 44,000 persons have completed the 20-hour course, noted the article. "Besides teaching basic driving strategy to stay alive, the course emphasizes protective clothing, helmets, leather gloves, tough trousers, and high-top boots," said MARJORIE JENNINGS, coordinator of the Motorcycle Safety Program.

SANTOS RIVERA, coordinator/counselor of Proyecto Pa'lante, was a guest on the "Thinking Latino" show on WCLR (FM-101.9) on Sunday, June 3. He discussed the Proyecto Pa'lante program.

ROBERT STARKS, associate professor of inner city studies education, was interviewed on "Morning Edition" on WBEZ (FM-91.5), on Thursday, May 24. He discussed the possible breakdown of a united front in the Democratic Party with the recent Alderman Edward Burke/Mayor Harold Washington disagreement on the late filing of the mayor's financial report.
