U.N.I. Professor Receives Award

Dr. J. Fred MacDonald, a Professor of History at Northeastern Illinois University, was recently named one of the recipients of the San Francisco State University School of Creative Arts' "1981 Broadcaster Preceptor Awards." MacDonald is a resident of the North Park area.

The Broadcaster Preceptor Awards recognize men and women who are considered leaders in contributing to broadcasting industry standards and achievements. MacDonald was cited for his book Don't Touch That Dial: Radio Programming in American Life from 1920 to 1960.

MacDonald's book was recently named one of the "Outstanding Books of 1980" by Choice, a leading journal for professional librarians throughout the nation. Last year, Don't Touch That Dial was selected by the Society of Midland Authors as the best non-fiction book in the category of sociology and psychology. It was also a Nostalgia Book Club selection.

J. Fred MacDonald is producer and host of "Journeys," a documentary radio show which utilizes a variety of recorded material to focus on historical, cultural, and social phenomena. The show may be heard in the Chicago area on WBEZ-FM (91.5) on Saturday mornings at 11:00 a.m. and weekdays at 1:00 p.m.

He is currently working on a book about the early years of television.

MacDonald received his bachelor of arts and master of arts degree in history from the University of California at Berkeley. He was awarded his doctorate degree in history from the University of California at Los Angeles, and joined the history faculty at Northeastern Illinois University in 1969.

Shaw Wins B.O.G. Seat

The BOG Election Committee has announced that Tom Shaw, a graduate student has won the race for the position of Student Representative to the Board of Governors (BOG).

The official election results are:

- Tom Shaw 249
- Robert Zuley 213
- Mike Del Camp 61
- Laura Zeit 34

Michael Olivo 16
Carol Karp 7
David Wachenheimer ... 4

The BOG Representative is elected by the students to voice their concerns about BOG policies and regulations. The representative attends the meetings of the BOG, in a non-voting capacity.

Upon hearing of his victory Shaw expressed thanks to those that helped him in his campaign and stated, "I want students to know I'm accessible and want to work for them...The other candidates fought a good campaign and they should be congratulated on having the concern and interest to run to represent UNI students."

Shaw will replace Kim Rohter as the representative to the Board of Governors.

Ronald S. Kliner, the election committee chairman, said that he was surprised at the large turn-out of voters at the polls. Over 580 students voted in this year's election, "...compared to last year's 36 votes."

Student Guilty of Theft

Daniel Weaver, who was arrested for theft on May 27, appeared in Branch 26 Shoplifting Court on Wednesday, June 10. Weaver was suspected of shoplifting from the Book Nook on May 27. He was pursued and apprehended by Public Safety Officers Sohol and Spencer.

Weaver, who is 34, is currently enrolled as a student at UNI. It was reported that previous to his arrest, Weaver was seen on several occasions loitering around the Book Nook.

When arrested, Weaver had over $50 of merchandise in his possession, and when caught, said that he was jogging around the school when some guy began chasing him.

Weaver pleaded guilty to the theft charge, was found guilty, and was sentenced to 6 months probation.

UNI Students Join Honor Society

Nine new members were initiated into the UNI Chapter of PSI CHI, (The National Honor Society in Psychology), on April 24, 1981. The list of new members include: Jeff Reznick, Holly James, Susan Kostrzewa, Jim Sugrue, Thelma Krause, Peggi Klein, Gloria Fickert, Michael Schumann, and Melinda Dworkin.

PSI CHI are a group of dedicated psychology students who will sponsor a number of events during the upcoming year. Such events will be of particular interest to Psychology students, but anyone interested is welcome to participate.

Northeastern Awards Employees

Joseph Gris, Leona Furlong, Diane Hirsch and Mary Syron-Koos were awarded Service Recognition awards by the university. The awards are presented to Civil Service employees with ten or more years of service.

Gris has worked for U.N.I. as a service worker with 15 years of service, Furlong is currently Chief Business Clerk and Hirsch is an administrative assistant in Academic Affairs. Syron-Koos is an administrative clerk in the Learning Services Department.

Jean Brown, director of personnel said, "It's been refreshing to be involved with the presentation of these awards. They represent an accumulation of a great many years of experience and service to Northeastern's students, faculty and community."

MIME FORUM

Mime artist Bruce Garret will discuss and demonstrate a variety of styles of mime on Thursday, June 18, at 7:00 p.m. in the Auditorium. The evening's finale will include a skit in which the audience will be invited to participate.

Garret studied mime with Claude Kipnis at the University of Illinois and at the Pantomime Studio of Research in Mexico. He is former member of the Champaign, Illinois-based United Mime Workers and has used his mime, drama, and puppetry skills in working with children in general activity therapy at Michael Reese Hospital.

This program is part of a 99 cents Special series sponsored by Northeastern's Field and Continuing Education Department and the Alumni Association. Admission to the performance is 99 cents. For additional details about this or any of the upcoming programs in the series, call 583-4050, ext. 392.

UNI Newsbeat

The Department of Public Safety reports the following incidents that occurred the week ending June 6, 1981.

Throughout the week, officers discovered several windows and doors left open after hours. This is an invitation to theft. Lock doors and windows when you leave.

On June 6, Officer Donna Tristano extinguished a fire in a Science Building garbage can. An office had been locked and Tristano was acting on a request to unlock it when the fire was discovered. The fire was apparently started by a smoldering cigarette. For a safer campus, put out cigarettes thoroughly before disposing. The Public Safety Department is clearing its files of various items that were recovered before January 1, 1981. These items include books, umbrellas, clothing, etc. If you have lost articles on campus, go to the Public Safety Department prepared to identify yourself and the item. This is the final notice of attempts to return properties to their rightful owners. Items lost before January 1, 1981 which are not retrieved by June 20, 1981 will be donated to charity.

The Public Safety Department is located in the white mobile unit just west of the Classroom Building. You may claim your property between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Great America Trip

by Carol Gillin

The Great America Bus Trip, sponsored by CCAB proved to be a successful event. On Thursday, June 4 UNI Students and their friends spent the day at the big amusement park, in Gurnee, Illinois. The day was sunny, the park crowded, and the lines long.

To get a ride on the all new "Great American Eagle", the wait was anywhere from 1½ to 2½ hours long, but the survivors that went on it seemed to think it was worth it. The double-racing wooden roller coaster, which took over 20,000 hours to build is attracting thousands of visitors to the park. But, for the less daring individual, who doesn't want to drop 147 feet down, at 66 miles per hour, there's other alternatives.

Whether you joined CCAB on the bus trip to Great America, on June 4 - or not, you still can. CCAB is planning another bus trip to Great America on July 29.

VIEWPOINT

A Personal Opinion...

On June 2, at 12:00 in the Auditorium, there was a disgusting event that was supposed to be entertaining. The movie was "Frat House" and it was rated 'X' (TKE was never like this!).

I didn't stay for the whole movie (just for the first hour and one half) so I can't give you one of my famous movie reviews (remember 'Halloween?'). We all know what this movie was about (hmmm) and everyone that went should be ashamed of themselves (naughty, naughty). These kinds of movies are corrupting our students.

There were a couple hundred people that went to this film and a careful analysis shows us that all of them were perverts except for one (not me, stupid!), this lady who ran out after ten minutes. There were even some people that were taking notes (1st base, 2nd base, 3rd base).

At the present time I am trying to pass a law in Student Senate that would require everyone who went to an X-rated movie to sign in at the door so that we can take care of these sex-crazed hoodlums! Don't worry about me passing my law (worry about me being loose) because it will be easy, Senate will pass anything (just like Northeastern).

Students Question Parking Conditions

To the editor of the PRINT: We would appreciate it if you could print this article in your fine newspaper.

Being a commuter school you would think that the administration would realize that a large majority of people would be driving (cars) to school every day. And that they need a place to park once they get here. A decent place to park!

Our current parking situation has a lot of room for improvement. If any of you drive to school and park in a UNI lot, you realize that the pot-holes are not helping your cars suspension! And, if you've ever had to park adjacent to the library, you know that gravel is messy when it is wet.

After paying the outrageous parking fee for the privilege of using the lots, its not expecting too much to expect the lots to be in good shape, and I think we all agree there (sic) not.

What is amazing is the fact that the university has money in its budget for the purpose of repairing or repaving the lots, but is not using the money. Why not? It

CCAB Defends Program

Dear editor:

I am writing this letter as a result of a few complaints we received in the past months. The complaints concerned the quality of CCAB events in general. For example I was told that we lacked student attendance and that we were unorganized.

In the first place we try to get out in advance as much publicity for an event as is possible. Secondly CCAB has only a limited number of volunteers. Lastly, Northeastern Illinois University students, in general, are apathetic and do not participate in these events.

Instead of criticizing our programs these students should join CCAB and volunteer their talents. Let's use our time constructively, then we'll all be satisfied.

If you would like to join CCAB or have suggestions come up to the office (E205) located above the Book Nook. Let's work together.

Sincerely,
Cynthia McDonald

New Rep Thanks Supporters

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank those people who took the time, and expended the effort and the energy in supporting my candidacy and my campaign for the Board of Governors position.

As the new BOG Representative, I promise to be accessible. My single, overriding concern is to keep the students of UNI well informed and represented.

Thank you,

Complaint

Dear Editor,

I'd like to take this opportunity to let you know how much I disliked your issue of the newspaper two weeks ago. Do you really think that anyone really cares about the Gong show, which you ran as a lead article? Come on, I know you can do better than that. I realize that there aren't many people who write for the paper, but you could of at least written something better than the Gong show story.

Signed Your Conscience
Dear Conscience,

Thank you for your concern. However a person was going to cover a concert but they never turned anything in. They never gave me a reason — maybe it was a good one, but that still doesn't help.

Stageplayers Musical

Damm Yankees' ... Works Well

by Neil Schwartz
and Rick Guemmer

Last week the Stage Players opened with one of America's most durable stage commodities, Damn Yankees. It is an appealing musical with an ingenious plot written by George Abbott and Douglass Wallop, carried along by several engaging songs by Richard Adler and Jerry Ross.

The story is built on the always intriguing and successful Faustian line that has a soul in need literally selling his soul to the devil in order to obtain some otherwise totally inaccessible goal. Abbott and Wallop thoroughly Americanizes Damn Yankees by having a middle age, die-hard fan of the perennial last place Washington Senators (this should be fairly familiar to the "bleacher bums" of Wrigley Field) barter his soul so that in return he is turned into a young superstar that can lead his beloved basement Senators to a pennant victory over the eternally invincible Yankees. This is indeed miraculous for a while, as he continues to hit .460 and the Senators are right up there in a tie for first.

His middle American thoughts, however, persistently turn to his homestead and to the wife and family that he has left behind. In desperation, the Devil calls on one of his feminine assistants in the supernaturally agreeable shape of a young lady with red hair to seduce him back to keeping his agreement.

The show encompasses a large cast of 30. Among the principals are Edward Kerros who is a pleasant-voiced, and credible young Joe Hardy; Renee J. Kujawski is a competently comic temptress, Lola; and Dick Katschke sings well as the satanic Mr. Applegate.

The musical really catches fire, however, when some of the incidental characters take center stage. Sandra K. Buckman shines as one of the frumpish sisters smitten by the newly found phenom of the Washington Senators. Kevin Geiger is funny as a lunkhead ball player and is hilarious in the musical number, "The Game". The most outstanding performance is turned in by Mary J. Hay in her compassionate portrayal of Joe Boyd's middle-aged wife. She arouses sympathy with the rendering of true emotions even in the most contrived situations.

In the technical departments, Verlane T. Cadenhead's choreography utilizes the relatively small stage effectively. This is especially evident in the dynamically staged "Shoeless Joe" number when athletic movement are meaningfully incorporated into the dance number. Also, Durward Redd, who not only designed the sets and lighting for the production, but directed it as well, created a most suggestive set for the show. This design was most functional as it facilitated quick scene changes, to diverse locations.

The singers and dancers are an efficient ensemble and the comstuming was bright and attractive.

Certainly this was no Broadway extravaganza with a million dollar budget, but as a university production, presented by students and its theatre department it worked well and is indeed entertaining. Damn Yankees will continue through Saturday, June 20th at Northeastern's stage Center.

New Head Coach

Christ Kalamatas has been named head basketball coach at Northeastern Illinois University. Kalamatas, an assistant coach at Northeastern since 1978, succeeds coach John Schultz who wound up his career at UNI with 32 wins and 57 losses.

Kalamatas graduated from Northeastern in 1973. He played basketball at Western Illinois University and at Northeastern. He was also an "all-city player" while at Foreman High School.

BIKE-A-THON Gets $78,000

The American Diabetes Association BIKE-A-THON was held on Sunday, May 31. Over $78,000 in pledges were tallied. There were five locations for the BIKE-A-THON: Evanston, Schaumburg, Downers Grove, Homewood-Flossmoor, and suburban North Shore.

The Association had set $60,000 as its goal for this event. "Cool weather and hard-working bikers caused the goal to be broken," said Chairperson Susan Juvelier.

Bowling Class Rankings

Northeastern students participate in a bowling class that meets every Friday at Habetler Bowl, during the spring term. The students attending the class hope to improve their averages by bowling regularly and learning new techniques.

For the week ending June 5, Larry Anazalone had the highest average, 158, followed by Lee Thavesilpa, with a 151.

The high game rankings

were as follows:

- 171...Mark Szerszm
- 159...Michael Lavin
- 153...Karen Joyce
- 135...Dawn Girgis

The team with the highest average (and the lowest handicap) was The Muskateers, Sarah Cirrincione, Sandy Szardorski and Donna Barth. But the team that is now in first place is The Yankees, Michael Lavin, Dawn Girgis and Joyce Meyer.

Bike Riders Beware! Lock Up — or Lose It!

With the coming of the summer term, bike riders should be aware of the possibility of thefts — and take a few precautions.

LOCK, CHAIN, CABLE

(1.) Remember that locks, chains, and cables do deter theft. Thickness and quality are most important, so buy the best devices possible.

(2.) The best locks have a 7/16" hardened alloy steel shackle. This type of padlock has the greatest resistance to cutting or tampering. Combination locks are not recommended, since they are particularly vulnerable to hammer blows.

(3.) Chains should be at least 3/8" thick, made of hardened alloy steel, and 6' long to allow proper locking.

(4.) Cables should be at least 1/2" thick and 6' long to allow proper locking.

(5.) The best locking devices are not an absolute guarantee against the determined tool-equipped thief. While care in locking your bike gives a high degree of security, insurance is still a sound investment when you own a highly-prized bicycle. Locking devices, as well as the bicycle itself, are covered by most Homeowners' policies.

LOCKING YOUR BIKE

(1.) Position the lock as high off the ground as possible. This will make it difficult to gain leverage with bolt cutters, reduce the likelihood of the lock being smashed or pried off, and force the thief to reveal his activity.

(2.) Always anchor both wheels and the frame with your chain or cable to the bike rack. This is especially important if your bike has quick release hubs. Thieves will gladly steal part of your bikes.

(3.) Always use the bike racks provided on campus.

(4.) If you don't lock your bike, don't leave it!

IDENTIFYING YOUR BIKE

(1.) Record the serial number of your bike and file it in a safe place. Although the shop where you purchased your bike may have a record of your serial number, they cannot be expected to be responsible for record keeping. Keeping your bill of sale and a color photograph is also helpful.

(2.) Engrave your ID number on a "secret place" on your bike. This is especially important with bikes which do not have a serial number.

REPORT SUSPICIOUS ACTIVITY

(1.) Now that you recognize the theft problem, you can recognize the thief. He or she will be carrying some type of tool such as bolt cutters, hacksaw, hammer, or screwdriver.

(2.) The thief will often loiter around a bike rack or meander between racks looking for a bargain - the best bike with the cheapest locking devices.

(3.) Be suspicious of persons who, because of their age or dress, appear out of context with their surroundings (i.e., a group of 12 year-old boys on campus at 11:00 PM, or a person wearing a heavy coat on a warm day).

(4.) If you see what could be a theft in progress, call University Police at Ext. 200 immediately. Also, the phones on campus will give you contact with the Police. Know their locations and don't hesitate to use them.

(5.) Report all thefts on campus to University Police.

The CCAB Summer Committee presented Diving for Dollars on Tuesday, June 9, in the UNI Swimming Pool. All participants were told the rules for this event at 12:30 p.m. Intervals between each student consisted on two arm lengths prior to any surface diving. Diving didn't commence in each phase until the whistle was blown. Seventy-five dollars were distributed in film containers in various locations of the pool.

Dennis Vander Vieren gathered the most from the bottom of the pool - $11.00 - and the 17 students that participated gathered a total of $17.00.

Thanks of appreciation is extended to the Department of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics for their cooperation in this event. Both Frank Guihan and Joy Sholz, the lifeguards, are commended for their participation and assistance. The CCAB Summer Committee is planning Diving for More Dollars to take place in July.
